So sorry you were a Vict! I too am hopeful you see more footbeat officers. This is something I will audit to verify it is occurring.

Good evening and Happy Valentine's Day.

I wanted to forward the report below. This is becoming somewhat routine. We are off the hook with the mentally ill and have been using a Mobile Triage team phone number to report these to DMH-but if we could have LAPD more readily available that would be a plus. I know resources are thin- but surely DT must be experiencing the bulk. My car has been broken into and radio stolen twice in 10 months. :/ (By the way I leave nothing inside.) I just have to keep pushing for more footbeat officers.

Hope to connect soon!

Subject: 2/14/2016 1900-0700 Shift

Good Morning Everyone,

Today's Graveyard shift was pretty busy. We had multiple service calls regarding people drinking in public, trespassing, 41.18ds, minor disturbance, panhandling, fights, and incident exposure. At 7:55 PM, we received a service call for a woman screaming at people in front of Walgreen's. When we arrived at the location the subject was yelling and throwing phone cases at a group of skateboarders on the Broadway entrance side. The subject was a Hispanic female about 5'4 inches tall. I recognized the woman when we arrived she was a transient around the area and was always violent. I told the woman that she has to leave from in front of the store. She then swung at me two times and missed. She started yelling offensive racial remarks. I pulled out my pepper spray and she later relocated crossing the street. There was a man in Joe's parking lot naked from the waist down sleeping. He later put on his pants and relocated when we arrived. We received multiple service calls for a man causing disturbances outside Circle K, The Has Building and in front of Bar Mattachine. The subject was a black male bumping in to people, yelling at people. Going in and out of Circle K, verbally harassing pedestrians on the sidewalk and trying to fight the security guards at the bar and at Circle K. LAPD were contacted by the security at Circle K but they did not respond. The subject eventually relocated after we monitored his activity for an hour and a half. At 1:37 AM, while we were patrolling up Spring St. there was a Hispanic male subject thrown out of the Down And Out Bar. The subject tried to fight the security of the bar. He then punched a man trying to calm him down, one of the guards pepper sprayed the subject as the two began to fight. Our staff and the bar security staff stepped in, in separating the individuals. LAPD was across the street and arrived seconds after. The subject was arrested and transported by LAPD. No further incidents to report.

Best Regards,
Marques Barron
